3.1. Angloville Programmes

Angloville provides opportunities to English-speakers to participate in sponsored cultural exchange programmes (Angloville Programmes) in Central and Eastern Europe and some other European countries. These Programmes serve as an opportunity for English-speakers to explore the local culture of these countries by meeting and interacting through a series of organised activities and discussions with Local participants - adult professionals or teenagers. Local participants, in turn, participate in Angloville Programmes to learn about the culture and traditions of the English-speaking world and to improve their fluency in English by practising the language with international participants (International participants) as well as taking part in organised educational activities.

Angloville Programmes typically take place in selected countryside hotels in each Angloville country. Groups to a specific Angloville Programme leave from a designated Starting city using organised transportation by bus and return to the Starting city after completing the Programme.

For International participants, participation is sponsored by Angloville, which fully or partially covers their accommodation and board during an Angloville Programme.

The goal of Angloville is to foster interaction and intercultural communication between countries in Central and Eastern Europe and the broader English-speaking world as well as to offer further opportunities to English-speakers in multiple domains, including travel, teacher training and international career opportunities. Depending on the Package chosen by the International participant, additional services may be provided before, during or after the Programme.

3.2. Supplementary services

In order to support International participants in getting the most out of their Angloville experience and to create opportunities for further cultural exploration, travel and relationship building in Europe, Angloville offers a range of Supplementary services. These Supplementary services may be part of a Package and thus tied to an Angloville Programme or may be offered independently of Programmes to any participant wishing to use them.

Types of Supplementary services offered by Angloville include i.a.:

- accommodation in Starting cities (extra nights before or after Programmes),
- EuroTrips - organised travel packages aimed at exploring a particular region of Europe.

Up-to-date offering and details of Supplementary services are published on the Website. The offer may be subject to changes.
